A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE is Tennessee Williams' Pulitzer Prize winning masterpiece. This riveting drama lays bare aging Southern Belle, Blanche DuBois, who's as fragile and as tied to romantic illusions as the "Old South" from which she sprang. Inevitably, like that genteel lifestyle, she is taken down by the cruel insensitivity of the post-industrial world as embodied by her coarse brother-in-law, Stanley Kowalski.

Drama Directed by Ciel Bottomly, September 7-8, 14-15-16m, 21-22, 2007

SHENANDOAH A Broadway Musical set in the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia during the American Civil War. Charlie Anderson is a widower living with his large family in the Shenandoah Valley. It is 1862, Anderson does not wish to be involved in the war because he doesn't consider it "his" war, but he is forced to take action when his youngest son is taken prisoner by Federal soldiers. A show filled with dance, comedy and sentiment was a winner of two Tony Awards.

Musical Directed by Tricia Dickinson, November 9-10, 16-17-18m, 23-24-25m, 2007

FORTY CARATS A 40 year old American divorcee is assisted by a young man when her car breaks down during a vacation in Greece. She must overcome the irresistibly strong attraction between them while contending with her mother, ex-husband, and a real estate client who would like to discuss more than business.

ONCE UPON A MATTRESS In this hilarious musical version of Hans Christian Andersen's classic, The Princess and the Pea, Princess Winifred the Woebegone must undergo a series of tests to convince Queen Aggravain that she is a true princess. She swims moats, engages in all night dance-a-thons, and endures a night of torture sleeping on a pea hidden beneath a mound of mattresses - all to win the hand of her beloved Prince Dauntless the Drab. This show is filled with music, dance, laughs, and fairy-tale fun!

Musical Co-Directed by Cheryl Capshaw & Rachel Krute, March 7-8, 14-15-16m, 21-22, 2008
